My Picture Chart

Ages 2-3 · 3 boxes

One picture per box, one word under each. Point at the box, say the word, and your child sticks the marker on when the step is done. Keep the chart at eye height and three boxes is the full list for this band.

This morning

AGES 2-3

Step	Mon	Tue	Wed	Thu	Fri	Sat	Sun
Shoes on
Cup in the sink
Bag by the door

Draw the picture for each step in the Step column first: one shoe, one cup, one bag. Marker or crayon, then tick the day square when the step lands. Say it out loud: “Shoes on — your marker moves.”

My Sticker Chart

Ages 4-6 · 4 rows

Four rows, seven days, one sticker per square when the step is done. Keep the sticker sheet in the same basket as this chart and keep the stickers big enough for a thumb. Four rows is a full week list.

This week

AGES 4-6

Step	Mon	Tue	Wed	Thu	Fri	Sat	Sun
Dressed by myself
Teeth brushed
Toys back in the bin
Book back on the shelf

The sticker goes on the day square at the moment the step lands, not at bedtime. When the chart turns over next month, change the sticker book, not the rows. An adult stays at the table for the sticker step and keeps tiny stickers out of reach under 3.

My Point Chart

Ages 7+ · 4 rows

Points in pencil, added the same evening, total in the corner. Keep the rows concrete and the trade-in small: a pancake shape choice, twenty extra minutes outdoors, picking the read-aloud book. Write the trade-in on the chart before week one.

This week

AGES 7+

Step	Mon	Tue	Wed	Thu	Fri	Sat	Sun	Total
Made the bed
Packed my bag
Read 20 minutes
Cleared my plate

Points are a count, not a price. Sunday night, add the totals together, mark the trade-in on the line below, then erase and start fresh Monday. The trade-in stays written down from day one.
